Official County Paper.

LILY and BOBBY WRIGHT
Editors and Proprietors.

Notices to our subscribers.

The HERALD is anxious of representing every neighborhood in the county. We furnish stationary free. Correspondents should have in mind to write me and advise a chapter copy before to my pressman, and always keep my name as well as the date of publication.

The constant drop of water
Waves away the heat of the sun.
The constant gale of Tornado
Shakes the longest house.
The sun's rays bring never
Carries the burning sand,
And the constant noise that
Is the one who gets the hide,
Ends us.

Don't forget the poor Editor, if you have an item of news, if your wife has taken you, come around and tell us like a little now and if you come out best in the contest we will be sure to hear it. If you have company tell us unless you are ashamed of your visitors. If you have a social gathering of a few of your relatives don't forget to bring around a big slice of cake as a guarantee of your good faith and then watch for a clever notice. If you forget to invite into the social never mind as a printer's wardrobe may not be keeping with the status of the occasion. We speak of this for the reason of news. Now elections -- Ex.

LET THE FENCES ALONE.

It is rumored that complaint has been made to the Department at Washington concerning fences being built upon government land, and that they will probably have to be taken down. If such is the case, we much regret it, as we consider the fences a benefit to the farmer as well as the stock man. In most instances, if not in all, the cattle men build fences to confine their stock to a certain range, and also keep them from intruding upon the farmer who has grown crops. In case of this kind why are not the fences a benefit to all concerned? It is as much protection to the farmer as it is to the owner of large herds of cattle, and the ranches is to the expense of building the fence while the farmer is protected from the large herds without expense. If it is the small herds outside the pastures that do most damage to crops. As a country we cannot afford to lose the cattle industry, for that is what the country is best adapted to, and is the principal source of revenue for the maintenance of our country organization. To shut off the cattle industry only means to shut off the revenue of the country.

BEAVER COUNTY AND ITS FUTURE.

A few words concerning the many advantages to be gained by taking a claim of one.

Through the papers of Beaver County many have said nothing of the wonderful resources of the county, and the many advantages to be gained by taking a claim where there is grass and pure water in abundance, and soil unequalled in the southwest for raising all kinds of forage. Yet, "notch it I have never been told". The inducements to those who wish a home are greater in Beaver county at present than ever before. During the past eight years the settlers of the county, by experiment, have fully demonstrated the fact that mixed farming and stock raising is what the county in general is best adapted to. It has also been proven that upon the river bottoms, and many smaller streams, a complete system of irrigation can be obtained with but little expense, where crops and vegetation of all kinds can be raised with profit. Upon the upland many different crops are raised successfully each year, and as the early settlers have found out by experimenting that the country is best adapted to, those who settle now may take advantage of that experience.

The prospects for a railroad through the county from east to west are flattering. It will come sooner or later, thus giving the settlers facilities for sending their products to market, and also enhancing the value of their homes.

The HERALD does not advertise this as a farming country taken as a whole, but we know of many who have made a success of farming, especially where irrigation may be obtained. Those who have a large or small herd of stock and will raise feed enough to carry them through the few days of stormy winter weather, have no excuse for not making a success in Beaver county.
